DEATH OF JOHNSTONE FORETOLD IN A DREAM

Miss Esther Beattie, of Orange, N. J., Told of Hallucination to Sister Employes on Morning of October 21.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—One month ago the tragic death of Ralph Johnstone, the Wright aviator, at Denver on Thursday was foretold with startling detail by Miss Esther Beatue.

Miss Beattle lives at Orange, N. J., and is employed in the Wright company offices in the Day and Night Bank building, at Forty-second street and building, at Forty-second street and Fifth avenue. She had almost a literal vision of the fatal accident in a dream.

It was so vivid that I still seem to see it all before me. I shocked me so that I woke up with a scream and found myself trembling.

"It worries me particularly, because I iscarcely know Mr. Johnstone more than by name. I have only seen him three or four times, and have hardly exchanged a word with him. For this reason I feel as if the dream is a terrible omen. There was no reason why I should dream of Johnstone or of flying machines. I had scarcely thought about them the day before.

Traders Are Now Less Inclined to Fight the Advance in Stocks

Reading and Union Pacific are about 5 points bigher than they were a week ago, Steel has gained nearly as much and the minor securities have moved up 1 to 3 points. Today's market was not characterized by any activity but the strength was there.

It is stated that the Stanard oil people have not been connected with the manipulation and gossip apparently just as well founded, accredits Morgan and his allies with being on the bull side. The National City Bank, the Standard Oil outfit, has recently sold over $2,000,000 of securities; the First National has been a buyer—hence the conclusions.
